Conserving the Commercial Impulse

For a Merchant Marine

San Francisco News Letter.

The Merchant Marino League is multing progress, but it should have the the light that follows, help of the pulse in general, and not depend solely on the support extended Av the men of business. It is one of the associations untiling for the public from the "real pulsee of the Christians" to the "real pulsee of the Moors," good, and every person who is able to do so should enroll as a member. It is with emperors, princes, line, giant, enchantress, and others mixed up in a it. Bugs and children—they play side by side. The bugs get into the children dependent on its membership for the funds with which to entry on the work general tangle. This concludes Act XV, after which the audience is told, as per-That has to be done before and by congress, and there is a great deal to be program, to be sure and return to see what happens the next night.

It should be our duty as citizens to so arrange matters that in ten years from now the $300,000,000 that is now paid to foreign bottoms be paid to American shipowners, and thus keep the money at home. That is what we pay annually to some one else to do our oceancarrying business. Isn't that shameful! Our merchant marine is little more however, liquor has not been blamed for any unanimous votes in the legislature other houses, but the other people are half dressed and their children are rompt than a tradition. A liberal subsidy or a systematic subvention, it makes no until Link McCandless appeared before the committee on territories of around naked in the water, and the bugs are remping around any old way: matter which, will give us back the sea trade. Congress must do something, the house of representatives and explained how it was that his Democratic them. and that something must be done this session,

Edwin D. Mead, a leader in the movement for universal peace, addressing the convention of the Association of Cosmopolitan Clubs of Itliaen recently, secred a strong point when he said: "The consecration to the antislavery cause fertilized the whole moral and intellectual life of the country; it made Lowell and Whittier poets, it made Phillips and Summer orators, transfigured the preaching of Channing and Parker, and made their age illustrious. "How does the legislature stand on the proposed law?" asked the chairman of the committee, Congressman Hamiliton, who was wise and who only wanted to watch the Democratic leader work his way out,

"The legislature was to meet after I left the Territory of Hawaii," stampered Link, "and I have been told by letter that two men dissented in the louse: It was practically unanimous, I understand, in the senate: But I understand from letters otherwise that that was owing to an exchange of votes on other matters, and that is why it was unanimous. That is what I have understood by letters. There were other features. For instance, it was a question

Then he invertedly changed the subject.

Incidentally, McCandless took a fall out of one of the men who ran on the Republican ticket with him in Oahn in 1906. He was describing land conditions and the rental of Hummula in particular,

"That land was put up at an upset rental of $2500 per annum, and was old for $8150 per annum," he explained; "but the government has been trying a get the rental from it, and I believe they have it in court, but they have ver feen able to get any rental. It was sold to a man by the name of Mr. trown, who was sheriff of the Island of Clahu, and they have sued him, but from them in doubles, ald not get any money. He has disposed of all his property to keep the vernment from getting its just dues. This is only one instance."
